Richard Weber named as Managing Director of DNB First Wealth Management

Downingtown, PA – June 21, 2010. As part of its efforts to enhance wealth management capabilities and broaden relationships with its clients, DNB First is pleased to announce the hiring of Richard Weber who will serve as Managing Director of DNB First Wealth Management.

Mr. Weber brings more than two decades of experience building and enhancing wealth management capabilities, spearheading wealth management activities for leading banks, including Fifth Third, Comerica, National City and Meridian Bank.

He also has served as an independent consultant lending his tactical experience, problem-solving skills, financial acumen, and effective client relationship and team building skills to help banks build successful wealth management programs.

Mr. Weber understands the importance of service to the communities, as he has volunteered his time serving on boards for various non-profit organizations, including the United Way.

“We’re thrilled to have Rick join our team. His strong track record of success and superior organizational and client building skills will play a vital role in helping DNB First serve the complete financial needs of our customers,” said William Hieb, President and COO.

William Latoff, Chairman and CEO agrees, “With all the uncertainty regarding larger financial institutions on Wall Street, individuals and businesses are looking to work with a local financial provider they know and trust. With Rick on our team, we’ll have a strong advantage in helping enhance our capabilities and services to capitalize on this opportunity.”
